A history of the descendents of
JOHN and SUSANNA COLE of Culpepper County, Virginia

By: Dr. Hugh E. Black

This rambling history of the descendants of John Cole, who died in Culpeper county, Virginia in 1757, is essentially a story of plain and mediocre people. There are no intellectual giants, business tycoons, great churchmen, statesmen, physicians, scientists or educators in the Cole clan. In fact, his descendants scattered in over one half of the states of the union, Alberta and New Zealand, are found mostly within the ranks of the humbler and less pretentious folks of the states in which they reside.

Politically, many of the large Cole families who lived in Kentucky and Missouri were democrats and many fought in the Confederate Army in the Civil War. The trials and tribulations of Zerelda Cole Samuels and her sons, Jesse and Frank James, are graphic evidence of the deep allegiance that some of the Missouri Coles had for the Southern Cause.

However, my own great grandfather, Jesse Cole (1805-1892) who left Northwestern Missouri in 1852 to settle in Nemaha County, Nebraska was a Northern Democrat and supported Stephen A. Douglas in the election of 1860. While there is some evidence that his family left Missouri to escape the pressure of the pro-slavery crowd, it is more logical to assume that they came to Nebraska in 1852 to take up new land in that practically unsettled state.

Judging from the introduction to the will of our earliest ancestor, John Cole, written in 1757, he must have been a deeply religious man but the first evidence of membership in a church was the enrollment in the famous "Forks of Elkhorn Church". by a number of the Coles of Woodford and Franklin counties of Kentucky. This early Baptist church in Kentucky occupied an important position in the settlement of that part of the state. Mrs. Ermina Jett Darnell has written an interesting book entitled "Forks of Elkhorn Church" which is not only of historic value but contains much genealogy of early Kentucky families, including a few of the Coles.

The Coles who lived in Clay County, Missouri were devout Baptists. Rev. Robert James, the first husband of Zerelda Cole, was an ordained Baptist minister and organized two Baptist churches in Clay County and his name is on the original charter of William Jewell College of Liberty, Missouri.

Later, many of the Cole families in Missouri and Nebraska became members of the Christian Church, a sect founded by Alexander Campbell in 1812. To this day, many of the Cole descendants living in the West and particularly some of those living in California are reverent members of the Christian Church.

Your historian has tried not to make this work a series of tombstone statistics of births and deaths only, but has tried to tell a little about the occupations of the male and some of the accomplishments of the female members of the family. When this information is lacking, it is because it was denied to me by some members of the family. While most of the Coles were most cooperative, a few ignored my letters of inquiry, which is responsible for the blank spaces in the records. More than 350 letters of inquiry were written in longhand and directed to our scattered family.

I am particularly grateful to Mrs. Nellie Mc Ininch of Kansas City for her encouragement and wide variety of information about the Brownville phase of the Nemaha county Coles. Others who made considerable contributions to this history are Mrs. Hollis Mayer of Escondido, California, Mrs. Alma Armstrong of Lincoln, Nebraska, J. Harve Cole of Edgemont, South Dakota, Floyd Cole of Casper, Wyoming, Mrs. Gay Raines Strayer of Milwaukie, Oregon, Mrs. Frankie Mc Crory of Fresno, California, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Fugitt of Kernville, California, Mr. Thomas Railsbach of Auburn, Nebraska and Mrs. George M. Vandever of Neodesha, Kansas.

I will be eternally grateful to my good wife, Mary, who cheerfully chauffeured me more than 7500 miles to interview Cole descendants, visit cemeteries, libraries and courthouses from Frankfort, Kentucky to San Francisco.

Mr. Hugh Hawkins of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, a member of another entirely different Cole family gave valuable information about the family of Jesse Cole (1769-1857).

Great credit should be given the late Judge Redmond S. Cole of Tulsa, Oklahoma for his meticulous records and research of the Cole family of Woodford county, Kentucky. Judge Cole, an able genealogist, spent over 30 years on this work, only to discover that he was not a member of our family but was a member of another Cole family. He very graciously preserved his records "with the hope that, in some future time, some interested person would take up the task of completing the story where I left off". His comprehensive notes and data came into my hands through the generosity of ex-congressman Wm. C. Cole of St. Joseph, Missouri. Some of Judge Cole's work is copied verbatim in this history.

To Mr. George Harrison Sanford King, fellow American Society of Genealogists of Fredericksburg, Virginia, goes the credit of locating the wills of John and Susanna Cole. Mr. W. T. Black of Georgetown, Kentucky aided considerably in checking early Kentucky records in the famous Kentucky State Historical Library of Frankfort.

I pray that none of the Cole descendants will hold ill will toward me for the occasional errors, particularly errors of dates of birth and death and errors of omission. Check this up against the ineptitude of an aged amateur genealogist, tackling a task that should have been done when he was young and vigorous.

HISTORY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN AND SUSANNA COLE OF
CULPEPER COUNTY, VIRGINIA

CHAPTER I

COLES OF KENTUCKY, INDIANA AND MISSOURI

FIRST GENERATION

John Cole is our earliest known ancestor. The date and place of his birth are not known. He lived in Pennsylvania and some of his eight children were born there. We know a great deal about his second son, Richard Cole, but nothing about the other seven children, except what was revealed in his will and the will of his wife, Susanna.

John Cole moved from Pennsylvania to Virginia and died in Culpeper county in 1757. His wife, Susanna, died soon after in 1761. As the early Coles were long lived people, it is not unreasonable to assume that John and Susanna were born in the 1680's or 1690's. The date of the move from Pennsylvania to Virginia is not known but his son Richard voted in a Burgess election 1751 on 10 January in King George county (Deed Book #3, page 467).

In his will, John Cole bequeathed "the lot of land and plantation whereon I now live" and from this phraseology it appears that he was living on leased land-----not land owned in fee simple. In colonial times a "lot of land" meant a definite survey of a "lot" laid out from a larger tract. Many wealthy families in the lower counties were possessed of thousands of acres of land in the upper counties and in order to hold this land, they made leases for a term of years to persons who would "seat" it, clear the property etc. These leases were usually made for the term of three lives, thus sometimes called 99 year leases. There is no record of a deed to John Cole, either in the form of a direct sale or leases of record in Culpeper county; and there is no deed from his sons to any land there. As the family seems to have disappeared from the county, it is certain that they joined the great movement to Kentucky.

Besides farming, John Cole also ran a still, because in his will he directs his executors to sell a cask of brandy to help pay his debts and funeral expenses.

He also bequeathed the land on which he was then living, together with the still and utensils thereto belonging, to his sons, John and Richard. The inventory of his estate also lists parts for a still. As colonial distillers did not have to pay the $10.50 federal tax on liquors that modern distillers do, this could have been a profitable operation.

Death was imminent when his will was written on the 5th of January 1757. It was filed for probate on the 17th day of March 1757.

WILL OF JOHN COLE

In the name of God Amen! I John Cole of the parish of St. Mark in the County of Culpeper being sick, weak in body but of sound mind and memory, thanks to Almighty God for the same and calling to mind the uncertainty of this life. Do make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner and form following. First and principally I recomend my Soul to God who gave it Hoping through the merits and interception of my beloved Lord and Redeemer Jesus Christ to obtain Felicity. My body I comit to the earth therein to be decently interred at the discretion of my executors herein after named and as -----such worldlyestate wherewith it has pleased God to help me in this life, I give and dispose of in the following manner (to wit:)

My will and desire is that all my just debts and Funeral Charges be first paid and discharged and the remainder of my estate of what kind soever, I leave to my beloved wife Susanna Cole to dispose of between herself and my children in such manner and proportions as she shall think fit. But in case my said wife should not survive me & if she should survive me and die shortly before she can distribute or settle my estate, then and in such case I dispose of my estate in the following manner-

I give to my sons Richard Cole & John Cole the lot of land & plantation wherein I now live together with the still & utensils thereto belonging.

I give to each of my sons in laws, William Reynolds & John Morgan one cow and calf. I give to my daughter Mary Ann Cole one side saddle mare called Blaze, but in case my said daughter should die of the disorder which she is now afflicted with, then the said mare and saddle to go to my daughter, Martha Reynolds. I also give to my said daughter Mary Ann Cole, Lindsays Notes on the New Testament. I give to my son John Cole my great Bible and my best suit of clothes my Books and Gun.

I give to William Morgan my Sargathy Coat & black Jacket.

My will is that a cask of brandy which I now have by me should be sold and the money applied toward the payments of my debts and all the remainder of my estate be equally divided between my son John Cole and my other children who are not named in this will. But if it should so happen that all my children who are not named in this will should die, then it is my desire that my whole (the remainder) should be divided between my son John and my three children.

LASTLY, I do hereby appoint my beloved wife Susanna Cole as Executrix and my son Richard Cole executor of my last will & testament hereby revoking all other wills and I do hereby Declare this only to be my last will & testament.

Whereof I do hereto set my hand and seal this 5th day of January in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred fifty seven.

- VIII. Sarah Ann Cole

Susanna Cole did not long survive her husband, John, as her will was written on the 16th day of September 1761 and was filed for probate on the 30th day of November 1761. Her will was very similar to her husbands except that she did mention the names of four daughters, Judith, Alice, Susanna and Sarah Ann, who were named in John Cole's will only as "my other children who are not named in this will". Of the names of the eight children of John and Susanna Cole, Sarah Ann (Sallie) crops up the most often in their descendants. For at least six generations there have been one or more Sarahs.

SECOND GENERATION

RICHARD COLE (b. 1729-d. Nov. 21, 1814)

More is known about Richard Cole, our Revolutionary War ancestor, than any of the early Coles! Born in Pennsylvania, he married Ann Hubbard in Pennsylvania about 1760, who bore him nine children. After her death in Woodford Co. Ky. in 1795, he married Emsey Jones.

Richard Cole served in the Sixth Pennsylvania Regiment in the American Revolution. He must have been a tough, hardy individual as he was forty-five years of age when the war started. This was considered the beginning of old age in those days and not many men of that age, with a wife and nine children, would have cared to leave their families and the comfort of the fireside for military service.

The family had left Pennsylvania and was living in Virginia as early as 1751 because he voted in a Burgess election in King George County that year. (Deed Book #3, Page #467, 10 Jan. 1751)

In 1754 he had leased land as shown in Deed Book #4, Page 138, 14 Sept. 1754:-

Hancock Lee, Gentleman, of King George County makes a lease to Richard Cole for 150 acres on the north side of Horsepen Run, in the county of King George, adjoining the plantation of John Herndon---for the life of the said Richard Cole, Ann, his wife, and John Cole, his son.

Signed by Hancock Lee
Richard Cole

This property is upon Hersepen in Fauquier County which was not formed until 1759. This was a lease for lives-----so long as Richard Cole, his wife, Ann, or his son, John, lived, they had possession of this land, paying yearly rental to Hancock Lee, Gentleman, the proprietor thereof, and upon their death this land reverted to Lee and his heirs.

While nothing is known about Richard Cole's education, it is recorded in Dorman (Orange County Will Book #2 (1744-1778)) that Richard Cole, schoolmaster, was paid for the schooling of the orphans of John Plunkett, deceased.

Later, when he moved his family from Culpeper county, Virginia to Woodford county, Kentucky, he assisted Humphrey Marshall in surveying the site of Frankfort, now the capitol of Kentucky. A surveyor's assistant should have had some knowledge of mathematics.

Railey's History of Woodford county, Kentucky, published in 1928, states that "Richard Cole Sr. lived on Cole's Road on the old Franklin and Lexington Road, three miles from Midway, Kentucky. He was a prosperous and painstaking farmer and soon erected a large building on the premises that was only a short distance from the road, which not only housed his family, but was also used as a tavern to accomodate the traveling public. That road, at that early date, was the main road from Maysville and Lexington to Frankfort and Louisville. Such men as Henry Clay and John J. Crittenden often stopped here for rest". Robert M. Cole, a descendant and quite an old man in 1907, stated that this tavern was known as "Black Horse Tavern".

The U. S. Census of 1810 shows that Richard Cole had only two members in his family. This was probably he and his second wife, Emsey Jones Cole. It also showed that he was the owner of five slaves. The same census reveals that his son, Richard Cole Jr., had ten in his family and was the owner of three slaves. Richard Cole Sr. and his wife, Ann, are buried in the Cole cemetery near Midway, Kentucky.

RICHARD COLE (John) (b. 1729-d. Nov. 21, 1814) married (1) Ann Hubbard (b. 1720-d. Feb. 11, 1795).

THE CHILDREN OF RICHARD COLE AND ANN HUBBARD

I. JOHN COLE married Nancy Hines and lived in Barren county, Kentucky.

II. RICHARD COLE JR. (1763-1839) married Sallie Yates and continued to operate the tavern after his father's death in 1814. His children were:-

(a) POLLY COLE married Elijah Finnie

(b) ELIZABETH COLE married Thomas Martin (1792-1884) in 1812. Lived near Midway, Kentucky

(c) SALLIE COLE married Henry B. Lewis, 1828, in Woodford county, Kentucky

(e) WILLIAM Y. COLE (b. Sept. 16, 1788-d. June 19, 1823)

(f) JESSE COLE (one Jesse Cole married Fanny Rice) Franklin county, Kentucky in 1815

(g) AMOS COLE (1768-1827) married _____ and had one child, Sarah Ann Cole

III. JESSE COLE (1769-1857) married (1) Nancy Sparks in Franklin county, Kentucky. She was the mother of his eleven children and died in Kentucky. His (2) wife was Elizabeth Roberts, whom he married in Ripley county, Indiana on October 27, 1825. His (3) wife was Mrs. Elizabeth Hyatt, whom he married in 1848. Jesse Cole (1769-1857) is the ancestor from whom most of the Cole families in N.W. Missouri; Nemaha county, Nebraska; Wyoming; Nevada; Montana; New Mexico; California; Oregon; Alberta and New Zealand are descended.

The children of Jesse Cole and Nancy Sparks were:-

- (a) CHARLES C. COLE married, wife not known. Three children.
- (b) JEREMIAH COLE married Rebecca Young. Nine children.
- (c) ELIZABETH COLE married Noah Ransdell. Six children
- (d) JOHN M. COLE (b. Nov. 18, 1801- d. Apr. 23, 1875)
married Sarah Collier (b. Feb. 10, 1809- d. Apr. 16, 1879) Ten children.
- (e) MARY COLE married _____ Young.
- (f) JESSE COLE (1805-1892) married Aljailina Wheeler
(b. 1810- d. 1888) in Shelby county, Indiana in 1826.

Note:-This Jesse Cole was the Great Grandfather of this writer and the ancestor of the Coles of Nemaha County, Nebraska.

- (g) MILLY COLE married _____ Salyers.
- (h) NANCY COLE married Hezekiah Evans.
- (i) ELIZABETH COLE married _____ Jones.
- (j) WILLIS WASHINGTON COLE
- (k) HENRY CLAY COLE

Note: The exact order of birth of these children is not known but are listed as above, it being the order mentioned in the will. This Jesse Cole, born in Kentucky about 1769, was a taxpayer in Franklin county, Kentucky in 1801. He and his wife, Nancy, joined "The Forks of Elkhorn Church" (Baptist) after 1800 and were dismissed, by letter, to Big Spring Church in 1812. He owned several tracts of land on Elkhorn Creek, near the Scott county line, but later moved to Ripley county, Indiana, after Nancy's death. His (2) marriage to Elizabeth Roberts in 1826 and to (3) Mrs. Elizabeth Hyatt, in 1848, took place in Ripley county, Indiana. His will, probated in 1857, which follows, contains one paragraph which is a classic example of a cantankerous old man taking a final verbal fling at an errant spouse, the second wife. After reading the provisions in the will concerning the rights of his third wife, can you censure her for renouncing and disclaiming the will?

Through the courtesy of ex-congressman Wm. C. Cole of St. Joseph, Missouri is a copy of a letter written in 1854 by Jesse Cole (1755-1857) to his son, John Cole, of Andrew county, Missouri:-

Ripley county, Indiana, Oct. 24th, 1854

Dear Son and Daughter

My respects to you and my relation. Informing you our present situation, the drouth set in about the middle of June and lasted until the 27th August our pastures dried up, our corn looked like totally failing, and in this parts there will not be one barrel of corn raised to the acre, in my opinion very few potatoes or cabace, no beans, our crop of wheat was maderate, our oats and grafs tollirable good, I can not see how the poorer class will make-out, the best will be hard run to make out, as far east, and west and south, as I have heard, the drouth has been hard.

I have just returned from Charles C. Cole's burial he was taken about four weeks past with a pain in his rite side, shoulder, he was not entirely confined some times up and some times down, he had a doctor who said cold had settled on his liver. Sometime past, Charles continued as above described until yesterday about 10 o'clock, all of a sudden he was taken with a difficalty of breathing and in a few minutes life was gone. Brethern Wm. Golding and Jacob Cox preached his funeral at his own house to a large attentive congregation and he was very decently buried and I hope his Soul is gone to Glory. May all of us be prepared to go when called, death is certain. My health is but moderate, and has been moderate all the season, I feel more feeble, still a wearing away. My wife enjoys fine health and is a great help to me. We are getting along as well as old age possible could expect. We live in perfect peace, no brawls at home nor abroad. Highly respected by the best of citizens, keep the best of company and no other.

The rest of your relations except Mary Young and Henry C. Cole are in common health. Mary Young has been sick, but the last account 21st of this month she was mending. Henry has the Ague and Fever sometime and still chills. He is with Mary Young and Oto E. Roberts live on Young's land in an out house. John Roberts has nearly swindled her out as I understand.

We had a very warm election this month, the corruption that has taken place in our government and appointing Furrener to office and intreague and secret working with the Roman Pope in America by his Jesuits and secret agents has aroused the Americans and they have carried the election as far as I have heard generally American Independence appears to be the watch word.

My respects to George Fuelrs and Homes Robertson for their intellegant letters and you must let them see this in answer to theirs, as I am old and they are young, I would like for all my grand children to write to me how they are doing and what they are trying to do and my children also. May the Lord smile on you all and may you all be prepared to serve the Lord while you live and dwell in everlasting bliss in heaven where the wicked will sease from troubling and the weary be at rest. Farewell to John H Cole & wife and children.

/s/ Jesse Cole

NB. Wm. Golden is the Baptist Missonery Text was in the Gospel by St. John, 11 chapter and 23 verse

COMMENTS ON JESSE COLE'S (1765-1857) LETTER OF 1854

This interesting letter reveals that even a century ago the farmers were plagued with water shortages, just as they are today. It also disclosed the crops that were raised in southern Indiana along the Ohio river.

The vivid description of the final illness and death of his oldest son, Charles, would cause an amateur medico to guess that Charles suffered from heart disease and that death could have been due to a coronary attack.

From his comments on his son's funeral and the hereafter it shows that my great great grandfather was a religious man.

The paragraph about his and his wife's health reveals that he was keenly aware of the infirmities of old age and that he was happy with his third wife (Mrs. Elizabeth Hyatt).

The remarks about the illness of his youngest son, Henry C. Cole, certainly is evidence that Henry C. was suffering from malarial, a scourge that was most prevalent a century ago.

To this historian, the most interesting of all his views were his comments on a recent election. He was probably referring to the presidential election of Franklin Pierce, a democrat who served one term from 1853-1857. If Jesse knew that we now have a "papist" in the White House (1962) and that this writer, a Cole descendant, was a convert to the religion of the "Roman Pope", he would probably flip right out of his coffin.

Although his father, Richard Cole, and his brother, Richard Cole Jr., owned slaves, there is no record in the early Kentucky census of Jesse owning slaves when he lived in Franklin county, Kentucky nor is there any record of how he viewed the whole problem of slavery.

IV. RACHAEL COLE married Willa Jett (s. Peter and Rebecca Bowen Jett of Stafford county, Virginia. Their children were:-

(a) RICHARD COLE JETT married (1) Lucy Mc Coy (d. Wm.) Marriage 1811. He married (2) Susan T. Miller about 1823 and went to Davies county, Kentucky where many of his descendants are still living. Richard Cole Jett and Lucy Mc Coy had five children and he had twelve children by Susan Miller. This could be the greatest number of children sired by any Cole descendant. Their fifth child was Richard Lockhart Jett (1829-1907). Miss Nina Jett of Owensboro, Kentucky, a granddaughter of Richard Lockhart Jett, states that the descendants of Rachael Cole and Willa Jett are nearly all red heads and that this branch of the family was known as the "red headed Coles".

V. BETSY COLE married _____ Swope. Mrs. Gigson, in her history of the Lindsay family, says her husband was Snape and that she and her husband did not go to Kentucky but to North Carolina or Tennessee.

VI. SALLIE COLE married Ben Graves. This man was probably Benjamin Graves, son of John Graves (1768-1824). (History Woodford Co. p. 76).

VII. ALICE COLE (Richard) (b. 1769-d. 1848) married in Woodford county, Kentucky in 1788, Anthony Lindsay (s. of Anthony) (b. Feb. 14, 1771-d. April 11, 1831). A History of the Anthony Lindsay Family, by Ann Lindsay Grigson, (published June 1905) indicated that several Lindsay brothers (sons of a wealthy Scotch sea captain, who was lost at sea) settled in Virginia and North Carolina. One of these sons, Anthony Lindsay, served as aid to Col. Washington at the time of Braddock's expedition. While bearing dispatches to the governor of Virginia, he stopped at the home of Lloyd Dorsey and fell in love with Dorsey's daughter, Nellie, whom he afterwards married. About 1780 Lindsay and wife went to Kentucky. Anthony, their third son, born Feb. 14, 1761, died April 11, 1831. They lived for a time in Woodford county and later moved to Scott county and established what was known as "Lindsay's Station". The Lindsay children were:-

Martin Smith of St. Joseph, Missouri said that his name was Amos. She said the mother of Zerelda Cole, was a sister-in-law of Pollie, Elizabeth and Sallie Cole. Judge Benjamin S. Lindsay, who died in Kentucky in 1917, left a family sketch and he said Sallie Lindsay married James Cole. Mrs. Sarah Cole Albright, living at Kearny, Missouri in 1928 told me the name of her grandfather was James. Recently I have had some correspondence with some Coles living in Kentucky and Indiana, who insist that the father of Zerelda Cole was Abbott Cole, and these elderly people thought that Abbott Cole was a son of Matthew Cole. The confusion can probably be removed from a check of early Kentucky records.

Sallie Lindsay, daughter of Alice Cole and Anthony Lindsay Jr., (See #4) married (1) James Cole. On the death of her first husband, she married (2) Robert Thomasson, born in Kentucky (probably Shelby county) Dec. 17, 1791. He had been married prior to this union. His first wife, Bethena Jean, by whom he had five sons and one daughter, to-wit: Simeon, William, Marcellus, Augustus, Manlius and Eneline. He resided in Kentucky until 1839 and then went to Clay county, Missouri where he died. (Judge Redmond S. Cole)

V. NANCY COLE (Jesse, Richard) married a man named Hezekiah Evans. Robert M. Cole told me that at an early date the Evans and Hill families engaged in a bloody feud in Kentucky, which lasted until all the members of each family were killed, except one Hill and Hezekiah Evans. They agreed to drop the feud and both joined the Confederate forces. In March 1861, Evans was shot and killed near his home and his negro man (Sanford) promptly hunted up Hill and shot him dead. This feud was started, so he said, in Fayette county, Kentucky.

Note:-I am indebted for much of the Lindsay data to Mrs. Harry Beal of Warsaw, Kentucky, who copied for me notes left by Judge Benjamin S. Lindsay who died in Kentucky in 1917. Unfortunately, the only copy of the Anthony Lindsay Family I ever saw was in my hands for only a very short time. I have never been able to discover a printed copy of same, although I once had a letter from Mrs. Grigson, then living at Thayer, Kansas. (Redmond S. Cole)

II. ZERELDA COLE (James, Richard, Richard) (b. in Kentucky) married Robert James, son of John James and Mary Poor, grandson of Drury Poor and Elizabeth Mims, great grandson of John Mims and Elizabeth Woodson. The presence of these names in this family indicated that probably John James lived in East Central, Virginia as the names of Poor, Mims and Woodson were common names there.

Robert James was a student in a Baptist seminary in Georgetown, Ky. when he wooed Zerelda Cole, a student in St. Catherine's Convent in Lexington. It was at the home of James M. Lindsay, her guardian at Stamping Ground, Kentucky that they were married on Dec. 28, 1841. Their wedding license was a strange, but common, type of document in those days. Robert James, the bridegroom, was the signer and the co-signer was a J. J. Millikin. It served as a bond for the payment of money to Zerelda Cole if, for any reason under the contract, the groom failed to show up for the wedding. As the bond consisted of 50 pounds of tobacco in lieu of cash, Zerelda Cole has been referred to as the "Tobacco Bride".

As Zerelda was only 17, her guardian, Lindsay, signed a consent of marriage. A local parson, G. R. Pitts "tied the knot" on Dec. 28, 1841. The record of the marriage, still legible, is recorded in Marriage License Book A, file No. 358 in the office of the county clerk, Scott county, Ky. The wedding agreement is in the old James home near Kearney, Missouri.

Rev. and Zerelda Cole James moved to Clay county, Missouri soon after their marriage but he left Zerelda and Missouri in 1850 to seek his fortune in the California gold fields. He was never heard from.

Note:- No one knows how many books, novels, novelettes and dime novels have been written about the James boys. They began to be ground out about 1880 and continued to be printed in great numbers until 1904, when the flow abated. Charles Bragin, 1525 West 12th St., Brooklyn 4, N. Y., a collector of dime novels, especially of Jesse James, states that about 450 novelettes have been written about Frank and Jesse James. One of the most recent "Jesse James Was My Neighbor" by Homer Croy, Dell Publishing Co. of 750 Third Ave., N. Y. 17, N. Y., a paperback priced 35¢, shows some evidence of historical research. In the introduction of the book, Croy admits that Jesse James was betrayed the year before he was born. In spite of this glaring anachronism, Croy's book is fascinating reading and way above much of the trash written about the James boys.

CHAPTER II

HISTORY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF JESSIE COLE (1805-1892) AND ALJAILINA WHEELER (1810-1888) OF NEMAHA COUNTY, NEBRASKA WESTERN STATES, ALBERTA AND NEW ZEALAND

FOURTH GENERATION

JESSE COLE (1805-1892) born in Franklin county, Ky. was the sixth child of Jesse Cole (1769-1857) and Nancy Sparks. I am almost certain the ten brothers and sisters of my great grandfather, Jesse Cole (1805-1892) were by Nancy Sparks.

Jesse (1805-1892) married Aljailina Wheeler (1810-1888) in Shelby county, Indiana in 1826. At least five of their eight children were born in Shelby county, including John Cole (1827-1869), my grandfather.

The family left Indiana about 1832 and traveled by ox carts to Atchison county, Missouri where they lived about 18 or 20 years.

In 1854, they left Missouri, crossing the Missouri River at Brownville, Nebraska and settled near Brownville, Nemaha county, Nebraska.

Jesse Cole, a staunch anti-slavery Northern Democrat, was elected a member of the First Territorial Council of Nebraska Territory. He was elected County Judge of Nemaha County in 1858. As there is no record of his having any legal training whatever, it is likely that county judges of those days were chosen for their general sagacity and political affluence.

Their first Nebraska home was built of logs. This was later replaced by a frame house with a huge fireplace with iron hooks to hold a huge black iron kettle. At first, their only light at night was a narrow strip of rag with one end inserted into grease and lighted. Their next mode of lighting was candles and then kerosene lamps.

Jesse and Aljailina's bed, according to Mrs. Nellie Mc Inch, was a four-poster with tall posts on each corner. One of the posts held a hat-rack. Their first mattresses were ticking filled with corn husks, until they raised chickens, when chicken feathers were used to make feather beds. Their first farming in Nebraska was done with oxen which were later replaced with horses.

When the California gold fever reached the Middle West, Jesse Cole, accompanied by two of his daughters, (Sallie) Mrs. Tom Fugitt and (Berilla) Mrs. Vaughan, made the long journey to California to the gold diggings by wagon train. Jesse found little gold and returned to Nebraska by sailing ship around Cape Horn to New Orleans and then up the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers to Brownville by river boats.

The two daughters remained in California and reared their families but did return to Nebraska to visit their parents and relatives in the late '80's, shortly before Aljailina's death.

Not a great deal is known about his wife, Aljailina Wheeler. To bear and rear eight children under primitive conditions speaks eloquently of her fortitude and courage. A picture taken in the '80's of Jesse, Aljailina, their four daughters and Eliza Cole, his daughter-in-law, reveals Aljailina to be a rather frail but stern woman. Three of the Nemaha county Coles, living in 1962, who knew Aljailina personally remembered her fondness for a clay pipe and her devotion to her husband.

When Jesse Cole died in 1892, the executor's inventory of his estate, which follows, was small but the intangibles of character, kindness and courage cannot be estimated.

Jesse and Aljailina are buried in lovely old Brownville Cemetery on the Cole family plot. Near them are buried three of their sons, John, Jesse and Ben and their wives. Three sons died young and two of them died of T.B.

MORE ABOUT THE CHILDREN OF JESSE COLE

JOHN COLE married Eliza Jane Hayes in Indiana. At least one of his children (Jesse Franklin) was born in Linden, in the northwest corner of Missouri in 1856. John Cole went to California during the gold rush, via wagon train, but was not on the same wagon train with his two sisters, Berilla Vaughan and Sallie Fugitt. He found little gold and returned, via the Isthmus of Panama and New Orleans, broken in health. He followed his father, Jesse Cole, to Nebraska and settled on SW 1/4 Sec. 11, 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles N.W. of Brownville in Nemaha county. Like many other Nebraska pioneers, the John Coles chose the rough, wooded land of eastern Nemaha county because the timber furnished logs for their first homes and fuel for warmth in the severe winters. Eliza Cole has said they first considered the richer prairie land farther west but finally decided on the timber land because it provided material for building and fuel for cooking and warmth.

The old John Cole farm is now owned by the Kennedy family and the home is abandoned and in ruins (1958).

John Cole died in 1869 of T.B. leaving his widow, Eliza, with six children, the oldest girl, Jennie, being 18 and the oldest boy, Franklin, 13.

Eliza Cole proved to be an excellent family manager and with the aid of her fatherless flock, her granaries were usually full and the farm free of mortgage.

Not only did she rear her own children, but took in two of a sister's children to raise, Ada and Cora Reed. Ada Reed, a mentally retarded child, remained with the Cole family until her death in 1947 at the age of 82.

Eliza Cole also raised a nephew, James K. Polk Hayes, who ran away from the Coles at the age of 16 to enlist and fight in the Union Army in the Civil War. After his return from the war, Jim Hayes, a masterful SARAH ANN (SALLIE) COLE married Wm. Fugitt. On May 1, 1852, about two weeks after the marriage of her younger sister, Berilla, to Thomas Vaughan at Brownville, the Fugitt and Vaughan families started across the plains for California by wagon train with their ox team and covered wagon. They went by way of the South Pass and in about six months arrived safely in California. Sallie already was the mother of two children, one being a new baby. This was the second trip for Mr. Fugitt, as he had crossed the plains before, probably in 1849, and had returned to Nebraska by the Isthmus of Panama. The Fugitts and Vaughans settled near each other in Napa county on their arrival in California. They were together again when the two families moved to Glennville in Kern county. William Fugitt was a farmer in Missouri and California. They had ten children, two of whom were born in Missouri and the others in California. William Fugitt served as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Wicker School District in Glennville for many years.

Mrs. Nellie Mc Inch of Kansas City is very positive that her grandfather, Jesse Cole (1805-1892) accompanied the Vaughans and Fugitts to California.

Mrs. Mary Maynard, age 95 of Fresno, the only living child of Berilla and Thomas Vaughan is just as certain that Jesse Cole never made the trip with his daughters. Other descendants of the Vaughans agree with her.

Mrs. Mc Inch has a gold nuggett that she says was given to her mother, Aljailina Plasters, by Jesse upon his return to Brownville and recalls many of the incidents of the trip told her when she was a young girl by the aged Jesse who spent the last years of his life in the Plaster's home.

In the same wagon train with the Vaughans and Fugitts were the following parties from Missouri:-

Dr. and Mrs. Aull and their children

Mr. and Mrs. Hogan

Mr. and Mrs. Ware and their sons John and E.B. (The boys were then about 10 and 12, John being the older. E.B. later became a very prominent minister in the Christian Church and wrote a book giving some of the early history of that organization in California and its pioneer ministers. He died in Healdsburg, California in 1928 at the age of 85).

Note:- Your historian is indebted to the late J. C. Mc Cubbin of Glendale, California for most of the data about the Vaughan and Fugitt families and their early days in California.

BERILLA COLE married Thomas C. Vaughan. Thomas C. Vaughan served in the army in the Mexican War in Powell's Battalion, Mounted Missouri Volunteers. While living in Missouri, Thomas C. Vaughan worked as a brick mason and also burned brick for sale. One May 1, 1852, shortly after the Vaughans were married, they started across the plains with an Ox team and covered wagon in a large wagon train. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fugitt (Sallie Ann Cole), her sister, and two of their children who had been born in Missouri. Their wagon train had no trouble with the Indians enroute. They settled in Napa county, California where Thomas Vaughan bought a ranch and raised wheat. He also rented other land on which he raised wheat. One year when his crop was ready for market he rented a barge and loaded his entire crop on this barge and started for the San Francisco market. Enroute to San Francisco, the barge sank and his entire crop was lost, which was a severe blow to the Vaughans as they carried no insurance.

They then left Napa county and moved to Sonora where he mined gold. He also mined gold at a camp known as the Long Barn Mining Camp. They then moved from Sonora to Visalia and in 1864 they and the Fugitts settled at Glenville in Kern county.

They and the Fugitts were active members of the Christian Church and helped organize the Christian Church in Glenville, of which Mr. Vaughan was an elder. Mr. Vaughan was elected to the office of County Superintendent of Schools while in Glenville and they then moved to Bakersfield, the county seat. Later they moved to San Jose where Mr. Vaughan died in 1894.

COMMENTS ON THE VAUGHAN AND FUGITT FAMILIES TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

With all the discomforts and hardships and occasional disaster, the trip of the Vaughan and Fugitt families from N.W. Missouri to California in 1852 was an experience that they cherished the remainder of their lives as a priceless memory. Octavius T. Howe in "Argonauts of 49" p. 182 says:- "On the plains men learned to know their companions. All that was the best and worst in human nature came out and the real man was revealed. Those who went by sea in after life remembered in a hazy way the uneventful voyage, but those who crossed the plains, though they lived beyond the age allotted to man, never forgot the ungratified thirst, the intense heat and bitter cold, the craving hunger and utter physical exhaustion of the trail and the rude crosses which marked the last resting places of loved companions. But there was another side. Neither would they forget the level prairie covered with lush grass and dotted with larkspur, verbena and lupine, the glorious sunrises in the mountains, the campfire and buffalo chips at night, the last pipe before bedtime and the pure sweet air of the desert. True, they suffered but the satisfaction of deeds accomplished and difficulties overcome more than compensated and made the overland passage a thing never to be forgotten and a life-long pleasure in remembrance".

ALJAILINA COLE married Davidson Plasters. Aljailina Cole Plasters probably spent more of her life in Brownville than any of Jesse Cole's children. As a small boy, I recall several visits with my mother, Rilla, to the Plasters' home in Brownville. Their home was the old brick residence on the north side of Main Street that now houses the Brownville Historical Society. I was too small to remember much about "Aunt Liney" but a recently discovered letter of hers, written to her sister, Berilla Vaughan, in California in 1894, reveals that she and her husband Davidson Plasters were extremely anxious for their children to receive some higher education and were willing to make the sacrifices necessary for this education. Aljailina was a pioneer school teacher and taught the second term of school that was taught in Nemaha county. It was a so-called subscription school and she rode from home to home on a side-saddle (no lady in those days would ride astride a horse).

The following funeral oration by Judge J. H. Broady was given at Davidson Plasters' funeral. While it shows evidence of political bias, yet it gives the highlights of his long and interesting life.

TRIBUTE TO DAVIDSON PLASTERS

Following is the able funeral address and tribute to the late Davidson Plasters, delivered at the grave by his friend, Judge J. H. Broady:-

"By request of his next of kin, I speak of the deceased on this occasion. If he is present and he may be, I feel that he does not disapprove of their choice, for I talk as a friend of one who was one of the best friends I ever had and who was one of the noblest characters I ever knew.

I said he may be here, yet we cannot see him. Plasters is not dead. This mortal body (the speaker placing his hand on the forehead of the corpse) from which the soul has so recently risen is not Plasters. It has collapsed and started to decay and is a total wreck as the shell of an egg when the chicken has hatched, but Plasters lives as much or more than ever before. We cannot believe that the grave is the end for that would seem to wreck the whole scheme of the universe, otherwise so splendid and at the promising climax sink to nothingness and make life not worth the trouble. No race of any age or any time, civilized or uncivilized, has believed that.

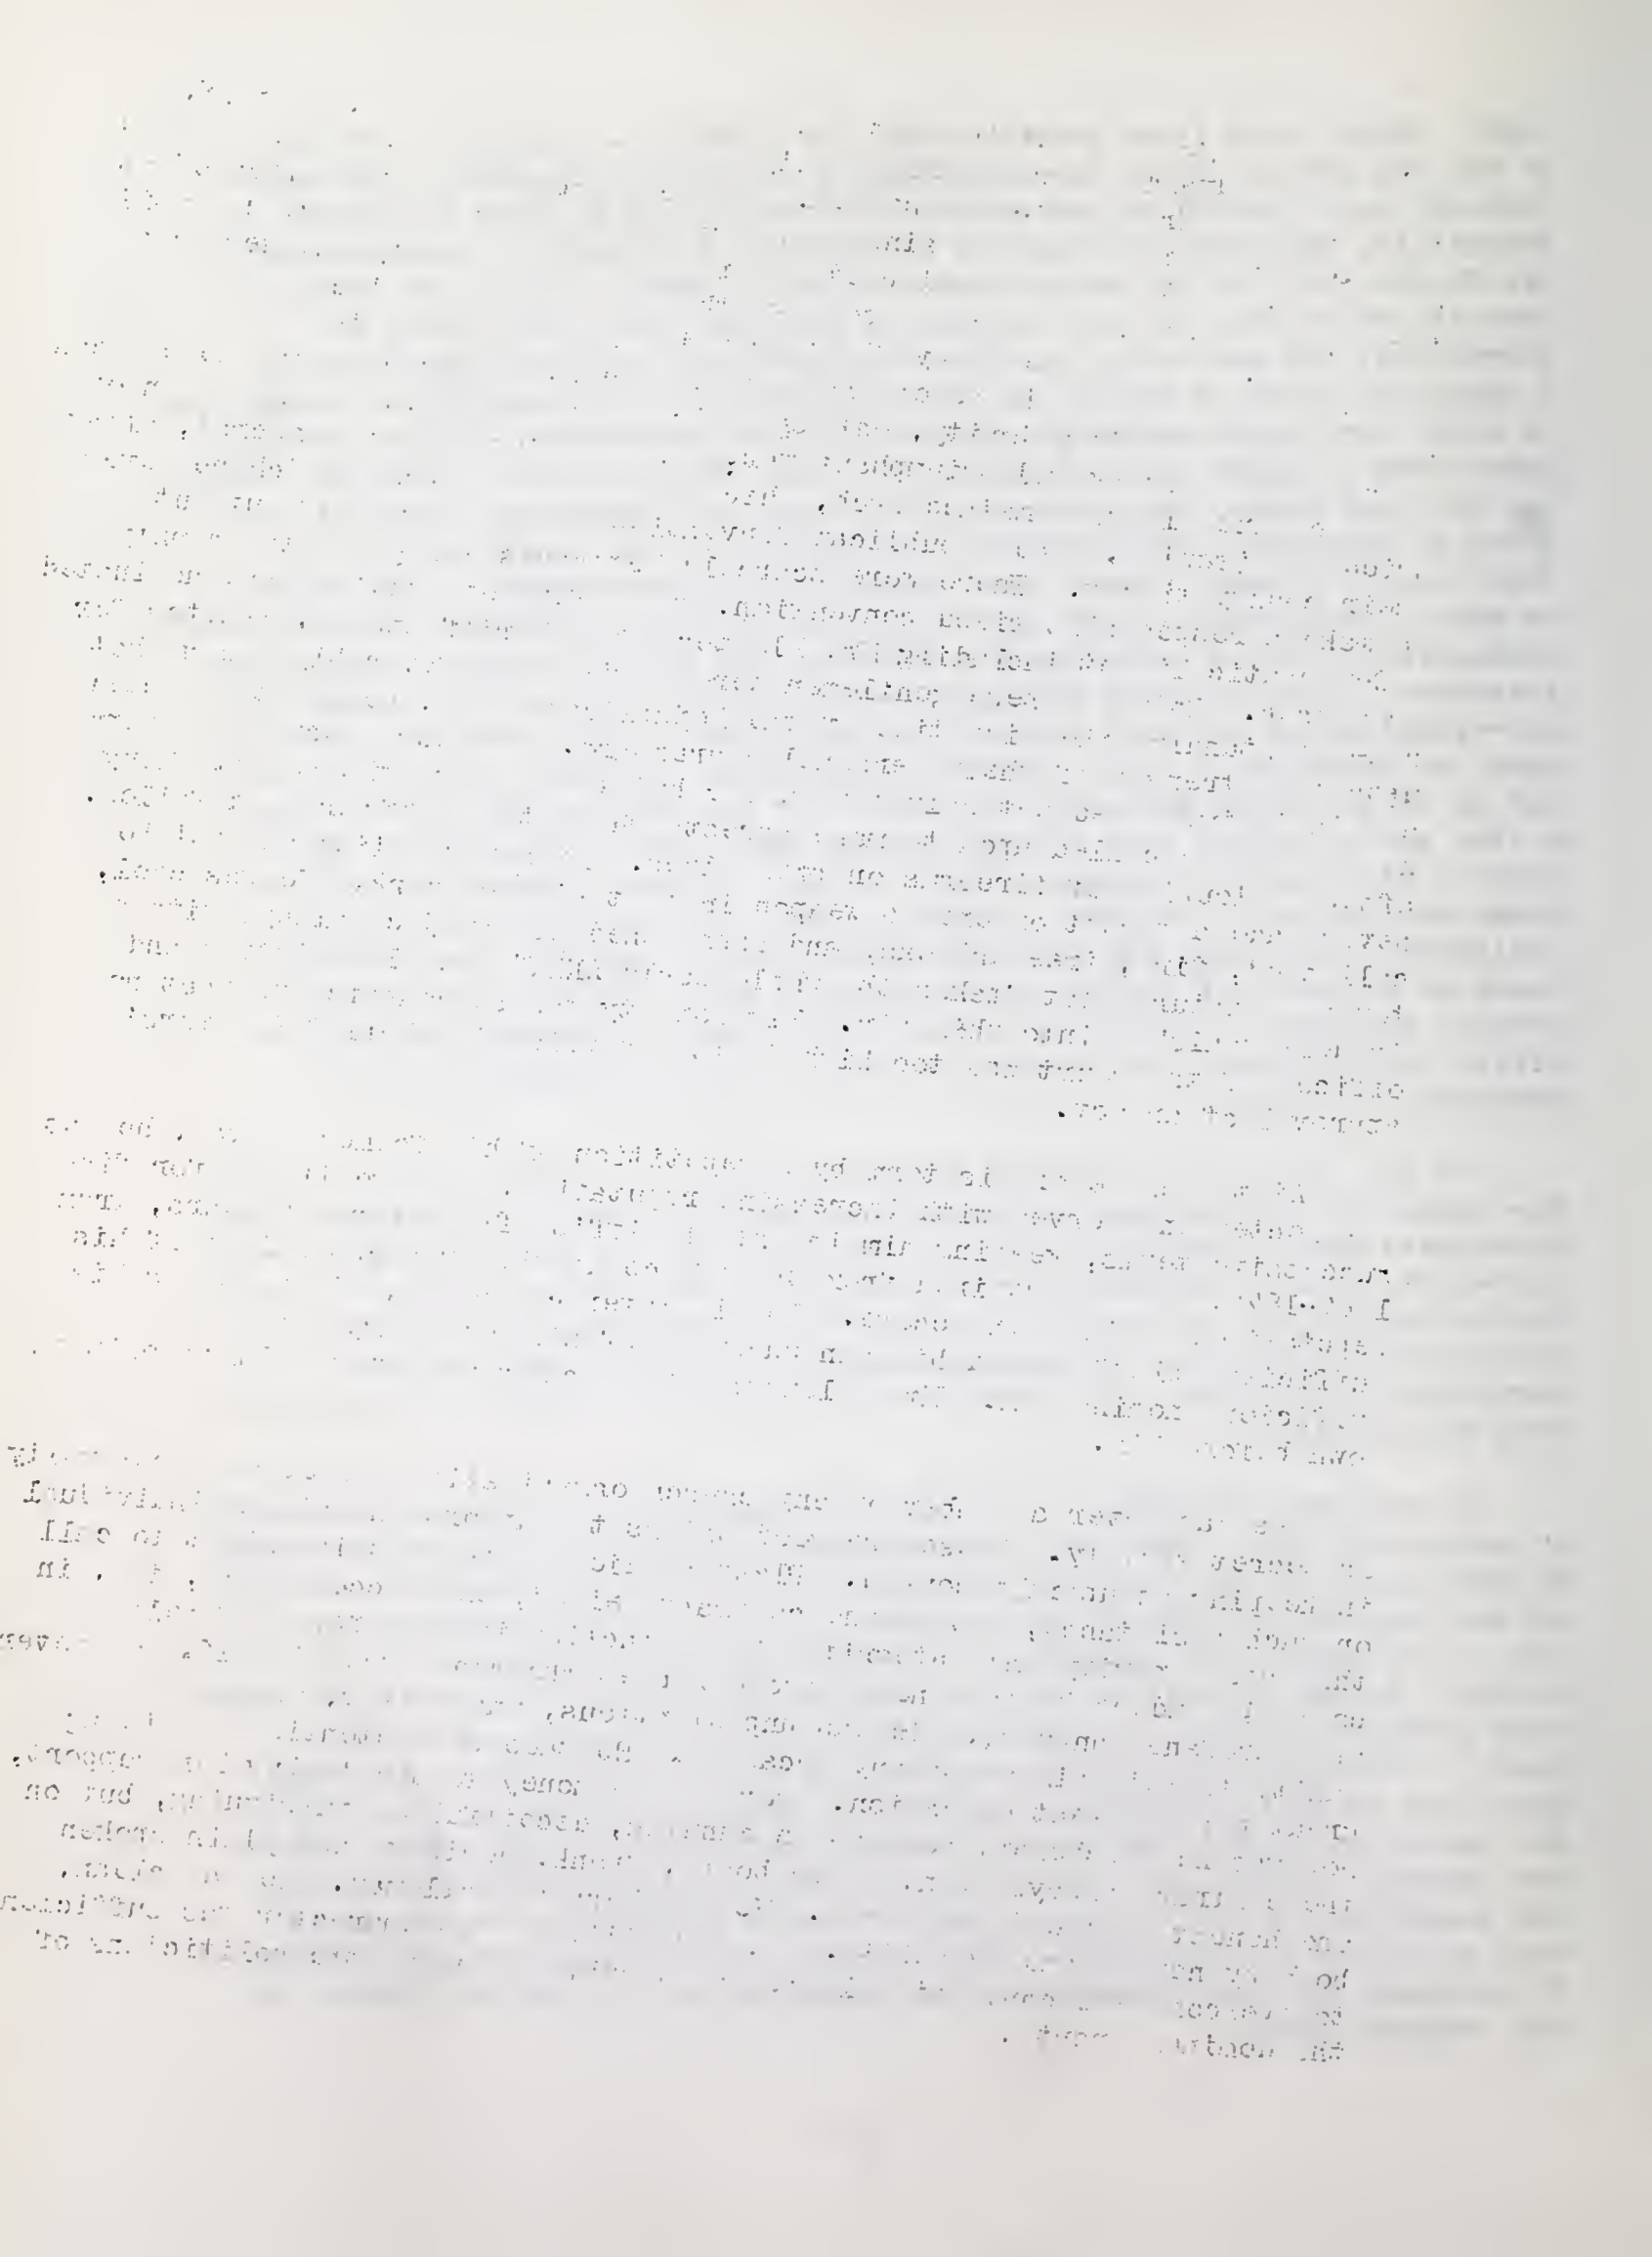

What we can say on this occasion can be of no service to Mr. Plasters, but to recall a character so worthy of emulation, may be a life inspiration to us on this side of the king of terrors that "speeds for us all like a bird on the wing". All come into this world under the mandate of the Creator that we shall build each a character for himself. There is no shirking from that command which made a builder of every one of us. The character, which each builds, is a reflection of his soul. We see the soul only in the character.

Now let us look at the soul of the deceased as reflected in the character as left, in his building in this life for more than three quarters of a century. Davidson Plasters was born in Kentucky, April 1, 1826. Three years later he went with his parents to Illinois. In 1850 he was the advance guard of his family to a point in Missouri a few miles east of where Brownville now stands. In the spring of 1856 he located at Brownville, Nebraska and remained a resident of Brownville precinct until his death. In 1857 he was elected sheriff of Nemaha county and served a term of two years. Now let us come to the year 1867 when I came to Brownville. He was one of my first acquaintances and from that time on I assume to speak of him as one having knowledge. The county was Republican by about two-thirds majority, enthusiastic and aggressive, in the sheen of glory from a mighty and triumphant war. Mr. Plasters was a Democrat, always had been and always remained such, which was well known and which he never tried to disguise. The Republican Convention in the usual way put out their county ticket. There were scarcely Democrats enough in the county to make a respectable sized convention, but a few got together and nominated a Democratic Ticket including Mr. Plasters for sheriff and Mr. Bratton for treasurer. Both of these gentlemen were so well and favorably known that notwithstanding the high tide of the Republican Party, were both elected upon the strength of their personal characters. Plasters served his term and in it impressed not only the public but the bar and the court. Many a time was he called upon to make arrests when other officers had failed, after a flourish of firearms on both sides. He never failed and yet he never made a threat or drew a weapon in that kind of work. He was cool, collected, firm, free and easy and approached his subject always with a touch of nature that "makes the whole world AKIN" and all friction and trouble vanished into thin air. His honesty was so conspicuous that no officer of the court was too high to feel a pride in Sheriff Plasters' approval of an act.

At the close of his term by a repetition of his former canvas, he was re-elected and served with increasing reputation. And so it was for five successive terms, keeping him in the sheriff's office for ten years, from 1867-1877, when he retired from the office at the greatest height of his reputation, on his own accord. In his later campaigns, his name was his sufficient platform and his announcement of his candidacy was the sufficient nomination. The splendor of his character swept all opposition down before him.

He was never a member of any church organization nor of any fraternity or secret society. These are good things to support and aid an individual in keeping an upright course. Plasters did not feel it incumbent to call on such assistance, but on the contrary relied, and successfully, too, in the native purity and integrity of his inclination and power of self control; indeed he was one of those heroes who conquered himself. He never used profane language. He was unpretentious, unassuming, and had no vanity to trip him up on any occasion. He made no pretensions of being great nor to great education. Nor had he money to use to buy him support, nor was he a schemer, nor was he cunning, deceitful or intriguing, but on the contrary always open, above board, frank, decisive and plain spoken and honest as the day is long. He was born a gentleman. He was clean, both by nature and by habits. The nobility of his character was sufficient to overcome the conventionalities and combinations of the politicians of the dominant party.

When he retired from the office of sheriff, the judge and the members of the bar felt that there was a loss to the district court of Nemaha county. They gave him a tangible token of their esteem. This is not my jewel. (Here the speaker drew from his pocket a gold watch, chain and charm.) This is Mr. Plasters' jewel. I read from the letters in the gold, "Davidson Plasters, from his Friends; Sheriff of Nemaha County 1867-1877". He succeeded there as he did everywhere. Whatever he got he earned. He made an abundance for himself and his family and kept them well and left a good remembrance to them of inheritance, but he did not get rich. He did not want to be rich. He did not build enough on the material things of this world, described by Carlyle as the "Gospel of Dirt", to get rich, but divided his time more on other things that build on things less material."

BEN COLE was married to Hester Jeanette Edwards. Ben Cole settled on a farm a few miles west of Brownville on the old Brownville road. He was a cripple with a severe knee infection. He tried to farm but hobbling behind a plow with a cane and handling a team of lanky Missouri mules proved too tough a task for his hardy soul and he died young.

After his death, his widow, Hester Jeanette, who was the first white woman to cross the Missouri River at Brownville, worked the farm for a short time, assisted by her oldest daughter, Emma Rebecca. On Sundays they hitched the mule team to a wagon and drove to Brownville to attend the Christian Church where several of the Cole clan worshiped.

After her two older daughters, Emma Rebecca and Sallie Anne were married, Hester Jeanette Cole took the three younger children, their dishes, cooking utensils and a few meager pieces of furniture, hitched the mule team to their wagon which they covered with canvas and drove to Litchfield in western Nebraska where she took up a homestead. With the aid of her two small sons Willaim Edward and Thomas Jesse, she cut sod and build a two room sod house on their claim. The house was never finished as only one room had a roof over it. The windows and door openings were covered with canvas from their covered wagon to keep out the cold. These privations proved too much for even courageous, hardy Hester Jeanette and she soon fell a victim of black measles.

After her mother's funeral, young Carrie Bell was sent to Lincoln to live with relatives on the proceeds of the sale of the mule team. The claim was abandoned and Tom stayed with the Simpson family in their sod house to help his uncle Frank Simpson break wild horses. Ed returned to Brownville and worked for his uncles Buel Starry and Davidson Plasters.

JESSE COLE married Hannah DeWitt. Both are buried in Brownville Cemetery. Not much is known of this Jesse Cole except that he died young of T.B. and that he too farmed in Nemaha county near Brownville. His wife Hannah was the fifth child of a pioneer Pennsylvania family. Her father was born in Pennsylvania in 1817. Her mother was Guliellumous Deakins. After Jesse's death in 1876 the four fatherless children lived for a while with their grandparents (Jesse 1805-1892) and Aljailina (1810-1888). One daughter lived for a time with their uncle Henry Cole's family near Peru, Nebraska.

JENNIE COLE married Benjamin Franklin Senior. The Senior family ran a grocery store in Hume, Missouri. Like so many of the Cole family, Franklin Senior contracted tuberculosis. His wife Jennie took him to Colorado by covered wagon as the generally accepted treatment for T.B. in those days was to get the patient to a climate with high altitude and dry air. His wife also contracted the disease from him and died in 1895. Their old home in Hume, Missouri was destroyed by fire in 1899 and with it the Senior family Bible.

HENRY GRAY COLE, the youngest of the Jesse Cole children, was married to Mary Perry. He farmed for many years at Wood Siding, close to the Missouri River. As a small boy, I visited at his home with my mother, Rilla Cole Black. He was a kindly, tall, spare man with a heavy iron gray mustache and had the knack of making small boys feel at home and at ease when they visited him. Near his home was an abandoned coal mine (the very first in Nebraska) which my brother Merle and I liked to explore. We would proceed into the tunnel, which pierced the light chocolate colored Missouri River bluffs, only as far as we could still see daylight. At the time of our visits, Mary Perry Cole was dead and his household was managed by his daughter Ethel.

SIXTH GENERATION

CHILDREN OF JOHN COLE (1827-1869) AND ELIZA HAYES (1837-1909)

I. JENNIE COLE (b. Jan. 1, 1851 d. Nov. 30, 1927) born at Rockport, Missouri, died and buried at Hamilton, Montana. Married George Moore, date of his birth unknown, died at Lake City, Colorado where he worked for a mining company for 12 years preceding his death. He was age 50 at the time of death. After raising four children, Jennie Moore helped rear the two sons of her sister Rilla who died in 1906.

II. SALLIE COLE (b. Apr. 4, 1853 d. Jan. 15, 1915) Sallie died of cancer at Auburn. Married in 1872 to Russell Hale (b. Aug. 2, 1848 d. Mar. 1, 1927) who died at Auburn, Nebraska. Both buried in Sheridan Cemetery at Auburn. Four children. Russell Hale was a teamster for many years in Auburn and was also gate tender at the long since defunct Auburn Chautauqua. He was the ideal, although severely henpecked husband and one of the kindest men that your historian ever met.

III. JESSE FRANKLIN COLE (b. Feb. 24, 1856 d. Aug. 28, 1940) born at Linden, Missouri and died of cancer at Auburn, Nebraska, married Alice Paris (d. Jan. 25, 1947) at Stella, Nebraska. Date of their marriage, Nov. 30, 1879 at Brownville. Three children. Jesse Franklin Cole, better known as Frank, farmed for nearly 20 years, $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles east of Auburn. When he was elected sheriff of Nemaha county in 1900, he sold his farm and moved to Auburn and lived in the County Jail Building during his term of office. As a frequent visitor to his home as a small boy, I was thrilled each morning to watch him give his small group of prisoners (who were usually minor offenders except for an occasional horse thief) their morning exercise which consisted of a short trip to the "Chic Sale" toilet to the rear of the jail lot while he stood guard with a cocked pistol.

After serving as sheriff the Frank Coles took up land at Custer, Oklahoma where they farmed for several years, but the lure of Nemaha county was too strong or perhaps Aunt Alice's antipathy for the Indians was too great for they returned to Auburn about 1910. For a few years he operated the horse drawn bus lines of Auburn where his lanky figure was a familiar sight at all passenger trains, night and day.

When my funds ran out during my last year of college in 1917, good old Uncle Frank endorsed my note at an Auburn bank, which gave me the funds to finish my dental course. When he was nearly 80 he came to visit us in La Salle, Illinois. During his visit I made for him his first set of artificial dentures. Using all the professional skill I possessed and taking exceptional pains to do a good job for my favorite uncle, I was quite proud of my handicraft and so was Uncle Frank but Aunt Alice, on seeing him for the first time with his new teeth, remarked "Frank, those teeth that Hugh made for you look like horse teeth".

Upon his death, he bequeathed me my most honored relic, the 38 caliber pistol and holster that he carried while sheriff of Nemaha county.

IV. RILLA HAYES COLE (b. Mar. 10, 1859 d. Dec. 17, 1906) born at Brownville and died at Cook, Nebraska of tuberculosis, married Dr. Edwin Thomas Black (b. May 17, 1858 d. Dec. 10, 1944) born at Clayton, Illinois and died at Huntsville, Illinois. Date of their marriage, April 18, 1886 at Brock, Nebraska. Three children.

Rilla Cole, after finishing the 8th grade in the red brick school on the NE corner of the John Cole farm, attended the Peru Normal School, Peru, Nebraska and was trained there as a teacher. Her first school was the old Cole school, where she had received her elementary education. An excellent photograph taken about 1881 of her and her pupils reveals that her younger sister Mary Alice (Mollie) was one of her pupils. She was teaching in Brock when she married Dr. Edwin T. Black, an 1881 graduate of Rush Medical College of Chicago. Shortly after their marriage they moved to the village of Cook (pop. 22 at that time) where they made their home until her death.

Rilla Black, without any formal training in art became a fairly good amateur painter in oils. In recent years, through the courtesy of the late Mrs. Nina Mills of Pendleton, Oregon, your historian has asquired three of her paintings. One of them "White Poppies" is excellent.

Dr. E.T. Black knew well the trials and sorrows of a rural horse and buggy doctor. Money was scarce in Nebraska in the '80's and '90's and while many of his patients never paid for his services his old records reveal that some paid their bills with chickens, oats, corn, firewood and potatoes.

V. W. CLIFTON COLE (b. 1861 d. 1922) born at Brownville and died at Omaha. Married Sarah Den of Brownville (b. 1863 d. 1930). She died at Omaha. Both buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Omaha. One child, Ralph Cole.

Clifton Cole ran a grocery store and later a saloon at Holdrege, Nebraska during the '90's. Around the turn of the century he ran a saloon for several years on Douglas Street near 13th Street in Omaha. Sarah Den Cole, a lover of good horse flesh, was driven around Omaha by a liveried coachman behind a team of spanking blacks.

When Sarah Cole's father, W. T. Den a pioneer Brownville merchant died, part of her share of her father's estate was $10,000 in gold coin which she lugged safely back to New York City hiding it in her berth in a pullman.

As gold is nearly as heavy as lead, this must have been quite a load for this buxom lady.

In 1908 Clifton Cole moved to New York City where he was for several years in partnership with Mr. Skip Dundy in a promotional activity on famous Coney Island.

III. BURRELL VAUGHAN a bachelor, was a miner and prospector who spent many years prospecting for gold alone in the traditional western manner. On his last trip into the hills in Kern county, California when he had been gone a long time, his faithful dog returned alone, gaunt and half starved, to his home and led a rescue party of neighbors to his master's body.

IV. ELIZA VAUGHAN (b. Apr. 25, 1859) married James T. Colyer. Eleven children. About three weeks after their marriage, this young couple sailed for New Zealand via the Sandwich Islands (Hawaii) where they made their home and raised eleven children. Eliza Vaughan died during the birth of her eleventh child. Little is known about the descendants of Elza Vaughan Colyer. James T. Colyer, her husband, was a clerk in a court in Invercargill, New Zealand for many years. One of their sons, J. T. Colyer, came to California. He lived, died and is buried in Paso Robles.

Mentally alert, with a subtle sense of humor, she reminisced about her girlhood days and threw some light upon the experiences of her mother, Berilla Cole Vaughan on their trek to California in 1852. She also gave me considerable authentic information about the other children of Berilla Cole Vaughan.

THE STORY OF AL. EDWARDS

(A hard-bitten friend of the Nemaha County Coles)

My mother, Rilla Cole Black, who was born near Brownville in 1859, was fond of telling the story of Al. Edwards, one of the few men who was scalped by the Indians to live to tell about it. Al., a frequent visitor at the John Cole farm, before and after losing his scalp, was a cousin of Hester Jeanette Cole, Ben Cole's wife.

Allen Wright Edwards, a native of Missouri, was born at Bolivar, Polk County, in 1846. His early days were spent on a farm near Bolivar and when a small boy his parents moved to Brownville, then a frontier settlement. He was left an orphan early and after a short period of working for neighboring farmers, he left the farm for Fort Leavenworth to seek employment as a plainsman and guide, but instead obtained a job as teamster for the freighting firm of Crow and Porter.

It was on his very first trip enroute with army supplies from Fort Leavenworth, Kansas to Fort Union, New Mexico that his wagon-train was attacked by Cheyennes, or Kiowas, and Edwards lost his scalp at the age of eighteen. The attack occurred early in the day of July 18, 1864, on Walnut Creek, near Fort Zarah, Kansas, about nine miles from the present site of Great Bend. When the attack came the lead teamsters whipped up their teams and reached the Fort in safety, but those in the rear were cut off by the Indian charge and had to make a stand in their own defense.

The fight with the Indians began about 9:00 A.M. and lasted until 4:00 P.M. Although very poorly armed, the teamsters succeeded in holding off the Indians for seven hours and killed many of the attackers. But their horses and mules were finally captured and the wagons plundered. Of the twenty-five teamsters in the train, ten were killed and five were wounded. Among the dead teamsters was Taulbird Edwards, a first cousin of Al.

The most remarkable feature of Al. Edward's great adventure was that he was conscious while he was being scalped and that he lay apparently as immobile and as inanimate as a corpse. While there are several instances in the history of Indian warfare where the victims of the scalping knife recovered and lived for years after the gory deed, Al. Edwards was the last survivor of that number.

All of the killed and wounded were stripped of their clothing by the Indians and when Edwards was picked up by the Cavalry Troopers, he was stark naked and he had five gunshot wounds on his body. The next day he was taken to Fort Larned, Kansas and placed under the care of the Post surgeon. He had no other clothing during that trip except an army blanket.

His wounds kept him in the hospital at Fort Larned until November, when he was discharged and allowed to return to his home town, Brownville, where he was a semi-invalid for about two years. Without the aid of modern wonder drugs, all of his wounds healed successfully except the scalp wound. It would heal and then open up again until 1901 when it was necessary to have extensive surgery and in May 1906 he applied to the government for a pension.

In spite of his wounds, Al. Edwards married and for several years farmed at Crab Orchard, Johnson County, in Nebraska. Later he moved to a farm eleven miles from Enid, Oklahoma, where he died at the age of seventy-eight, after rearing five children and acquiring considerable farm property.

For the details of the story of Al. Edwards, I am indebted to Mrs. Ory Harper of Caldwell, Idaho, whose husband is an Edwards descendant.
